Social News From Washington

(By C. S. ALBERT.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 27.—With the usual success attending her entertainments, Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish had nearly 400 guests at a ball at Crossways, her Newport villa, to compliment her niece, Miss Helen L. Fish, daughter of Mr. Hamilton Fish, now abroad on his second honeymoon. The Louis XVI period was simulated, with gorgeous electrical effects within and without the palatial residence. The temporary ballroom of fifty by sixty feet, with mirrored walls fifteen feet high, had a wealth of greenery and flowers in decorating it.

Separating the ballroom was a large rose arbor, inclosed in light green effect, which was lighted and showed bowers of roses. Throughout this room were two Louis XVI garden statues of white marble. At the end of the arbor stood a handsome marble statue of a dancing girl.

A fantasy, participated in by page boys, dressed in the silks and satins of the Louis XVI period, made a lovely spectacle for the guests about 11 o'clock. The boys carried silver lanterns hung with roses and ribbons and stretched between them a flower garland. Nymphs joined them for a dance, in which doves and butterflies were released to flutter over the company. As the nymphs faded away the goddess of the garden led in six mortals, wearing lovely costumes and masques. They danced a minuet.

General dancing followed and just before supper two Russian dancers gave a series of their wonderful evolutions.

Mrs. Fish received her guests at the head of the grand stairway leading from the main hall into the ballroom.

She wore a handsome Louis XVI gown. Miss Janet Fish, who assisted Mrs. Fish in receiving, wore a costume of blue chiffon with gold embroidery. Miss Helena L. Fish, who also received with Mrs. Fish, wore a Persian costume of pin chiffon with pale green trimmings. Standing about Mrs. Fish while receiving were two halberd bearers, and all the servants were in Louis XVI livery, with powdered hair.

Mr. and Mrs. James McLean of New York have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Helen McLean, and Maj. Herbert Valentine Ravenscroft of Worcestershire, England and Khartum. Maj. Ravenscroft is director of a department in the Sudan government and a colonel in the English Special Reserve. No date has yet been set for the wedding.

The remnants of the two regiments held a campfire and love feast on the battle grounds this year, some coming from California, Texas, Ohio and other states.

Later Col. and Mrs. Day will visit her relatives in the Shenandoah valley and at the Virginia springs.

Mrs. Champ Clark, wife of the Speaker, will leave Washington soon after the close of Congress for a stay of several weeks at their home in bowling Green, Mo. Miss Genevieve Clark, who is now in the Adirondacks of New York, will join her mother in time to make the trip with her. Bennett Clark will accompany his mother and sister. Later in the season Mrs. Clark will probably take a brief trip to England.

Mrs. A. H. Pitzer, of Colorado Springs, and Miss Pitzer, sister and niece of Mrs. Clark, who have been spending the summer in Washington, will remain in town with the Speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. T. Peake-Smith, who were married in Manila, P. I., in early July, are expected to visit relatives in this city shortly before going on to Canada and England. Their marriage took place at the archbishop's palace, the bride being Miss Marie Teresa de Lis, and the bridegroom the British vice consul at Manila.

The bride was dressed in white satin trimmed with Brussels lace and carried a bouquet of beautiful Benguet lilies. The altar was magnificently decorated for the occasion with white gardenias.

The young couple left on the Minnesota for the United States.

The bridegroom made presents to the bridesmaids and the maid of honor specially made in Japan for the occasion, each bearing the monogram of the person to whom presented.

The presents to the bride and bridegroom were very numerous and many of them of great value.
